GEORGES KASSABGITHE STARTING NOTE
by Georges Kassabgi

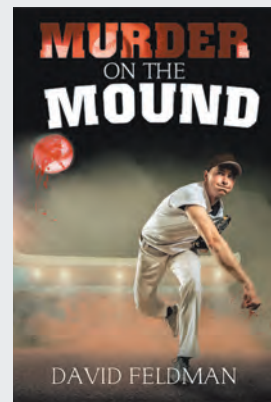

A piano drops from the sky, a successful author disappears, and NYPD Detective Chet Drowly's only clue is an unlikely one: a philosophical essay on the origins and development of our worldviews. After interviews, forensics reports, the arrest of a suspect, days in court... Chet arrives in Wolfeboro, New Hampshire. He meets a retired philosophy professor who draws his attention to critical details. Chet survives a struggle with an aggressor. In a Boston hospital, while he recovers from his wounds, Chet appreciates how valuable the New York author's works could have been for the police investigation.
